

« 1+1=3 : an exhibition where art becomes dialogue »

23.01–21.03.2026

Opening on Thursday 22 January 2026, 6-9pm

This group show conceived by Hervé Loevenbruck presents virtuous associations of ideas in which the juxtaposition of works and artists opens up a new space of dialogue. Beyond their tribute to Présence Panchouette, a mythical French group of the 1980s, these bold juxtapositions exemplify and/or question good taste, knowledge, eclecticism, and the art of mixing types of work that on the surface have nothing in common.

“1+1=3” draws on the gallery’s reserves, unearthing a congeries of art historical treasures by the likes of John Cage, Alfred Courmes, Key Hiraga, Asger Jorn, Tetsumi Kudo, Claes Oldenburg, Auguste Rodin and Alina Szapocznikow, for a conversation with contemporary artists such as Daniel Dewar & Grégory Gicquel, Blaise Drummond, Gábor Ósz, Chloé Royer, among others.

Between two works, between two artists – sometimes far apart, sometimes complementary – an interstice remains, deliberately left as a space of freedom where each is invited to relate, to invent. “1+1=3” is an invitation to go beyond appearances and discover, in the confrontation of styles and periods, a new way of looking at art.
