28 MATIGNON GRAND OPENING

Monday, October 19th, 2026
5-9 pm

28 Avenue Matignon, Paris 75008
Exhibition October 19th - November 31st, 2026
Tue-Sat 11am-7pm

Mitterrand is pleased to announce the opening of a second space at 28 avenue Matignon, marking a new chapter in the gallery's development and strengthening its presence in the heart of the Matignon–Saint-Honoré district.

Originally designed by Pierre Yovanovitch, the new space will be inaugurated during Paris Art Week and will take part in the Nocturne Matignon–Saint-Honoré on October 19, 2026, an annual evening bringing together the neighbourhood's galleries. It will open to the public on October 20, 2026.

This opening follows the inauguration in October 2024 of the gallery at 95 rue du Faubourg Saint-Honoré, located just a few steps away and designed by Belgian architect Bernard Dubois of Desselle Partners. With these two addresses, Mitterrand seeks to further establish its long-term presence in the 8th arrondissement.

"Having moved to the neighbourhood in 2024, taking over 28 avenue Matignon felt like a natural next step when the opportunity arose. This new address allows us to engage directly with both Parisian and international collectors and to benefit from the appeal of avenue Matignon, which has become one of the epicentres of the European art market. It also gives us greater freedom to experiment and explore a diverse range of projects, in dialogue with our gallery on rue du Faubourg Saint-Honoré. Since 1988, the gallery has continually explored new opportunities, and we are delighted by this new chapter and the possibilities it opens up for the future." — Edward Mitterrand

Conceived as a hybrid venue, the space will host a flexible programme encompassing both standalone presentations and projects developed on occasion in dialogue with exhibitions at the Faubourg Saint-Honoré gallery.
